

AutoCheck Timeline

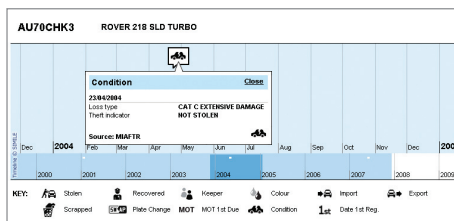

A new way to instantly
view a vehicle's history

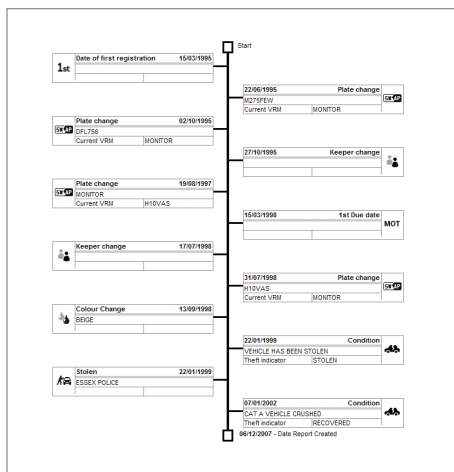

To make the most informed decisions about which vehicles to accept and how they should be resold requires complete visibility on the events in those vehicles' histories. Unique to Experian, AutoCheckTimeline offers this information with unprecedented clarity.

Vehicle history and risk management

Selling a vehicle with adverse history can affect more than just profit margins. With dealers' reputations and the reputations of the brands they represent on the line in every transaction, Experian is dedicated to producing products that help them to manage that risk.

The following events are recorded on a vehicle's AutoCheckTimeline:

- stolen
- recovered
- keeper change
- colour change
- import
- export
- scrapped
- plate change
- change of condition (eg. Category B write-off)
- mileages
- first MOT due date.

What is AutoCheckTimeline?

AutoCheckTimeline instantly displays a vehicle's history in an easy to view format, presenting in chronological order any events that have affected the vehicle and the date of that event, from the point of first registration onwards. The clarity of the report makes it easy to demonstrate a vehicle's integrity to a customer by presenting the vehicle history with more visibility than ever before.

What information does it contain?

AutoCheckTimeline draws on many of the same extensive data resources as AutoCheck, giving you comprehensive insight into a vehicle's history. AutoCheckTimeline also presents data not found in a standard AutoCheck report by showing not only if a vehicle is currently registered as stolen, but also if the vehicle was stolen and then recovered in the past.

Decision making made easy

Having this information in an easy to view format allows a dealer to make crucial decisions about any vehicle quickly and with confidence. Vehicle data is presented with unprecedented clarity in the interactive scrolling AutoCheck Timeline. It also prints easily into a customer friendly AutoCheck Timeline Report to provide as evidence to your customer of the vehicle's integrity.
